5-Year Ordeal Over

Freed Yank Flying Back From Europe

MUNICH, Germany (U)—Young John Hvasta smilingly flew back today toward freedom in the United States, the land of his adoption, after five fantastic years—in prison and in hiding—in Red-ruled Czechoslovakia, the land of his birth.

The winner in a grim cat-and-mouse game with Communist officials, he took off at 6:45 a. m. EST for Zurich, Switzerland, on the first leg of a fight to New York.

Hvasta got to the airport just in the nick of time. The plane's propellers were turning and the passenger ramp had been removed when he arrived from Nuremberg in a U.S. consulate car. He jumped out, embraced an old companion of his Czechoslovak prison break, sidestepped reporters and sprinted to the plane. The ramp was replaced and he climbed aboard, bareheaded and smiling.

He is due at New York's Idlewild Airport at 8:25 a. m. EST tomorrow.

His friend was identified as Jaroslav Bures, now a statesman.

Anxious Watch Being Kept on Pope's Illness

Difficulty in Taking In Food Weakens Him, Official Bulletin Says

VATICAN CITY (U)—Pope Pius' difficulty in taking food has continued to weaken him, said the first official bulletin issued on his condition today by his private physician.

The bulletin, issued by Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, said it is hoped "as soon as possible to repeat particular X-ray examinations to determine the condition both of the (Pope's) gastric area as well as of other organs in that area."

The Pontiff has now been ill for more than 10 days. Scanty, occasional communiqes have persistently maintained that he continues to improve. But anxiety for his health increased today when even this assurance, for the time being, was lacking.

The Pope's private physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, spent more time than usual at the Pope's bedside today, contributing to increased worry. The doctor's office said he had telephoned he would not be able to get in to his office later this morning, as he usually does after visiting the Vatican.

The Vatican press office has described the Pope's ailment as malfunctioning of the neuro-digestive tract. This has resulted in intermittent hiccups that have from time to time disturbed his sleep and, in general, weakened him.

Yesterday the Vatican press office announced that the Pope was continuing to improve. It added that he had spent a restful night.

166 Postoffice Hands Labeled Security Risks

Congressman Berates Firing Group, Wants Fuller Explanations

WASHINGTON (U)—Postmaster General Summerfield has told Congress that 166 postal employees have been discharged as "security risks" with "many hundreds" still under investigation. The postal service has about 500,000 employees.

Summerfield's testimony was given to a House Appropriations subcommittee last December and made public by the committee today.

The House hearing record showed that Rep. Sieminski (D-NJ) protested against what he termed promiscuous application of security labels to firings for reasons other than disloyalty.

Coffee Still Inexpensive Drink, Grocer Declares

Even at a dollar a pound, coffee is still the cheapest beverage in the average household today, maintains James Bull, president of the Marion County Grocers Association.

When asked about the nationwide coffee situation, the local grocer explained that the average homemaker can brew nearly 50 cups of good coffee from a pound of coffee. At this rate, the price per cup would be only two cents—cheaper than a glass of milk, a cup of cocoa, a soft drink or stronger beverages.

Dulles Denounces Russia's Plan Denying Free German Elections

Treaty Curbs Test Delayed By Knowland

Showdown Not Due Until Feb. 16 or Later, GOP Leader Reports

WASHINGTON (U)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said today there will be no key test votes on the Bricker amendment dealing with treaty powers until Feb. 16 or later.

The hotly controversial issue is being put aside to simmer all next week while the Senate turns to other matters.

Knowland told newsmen he thought the delay would be healthy in giving the country a chance to be heard from further.

Appeals for Backing

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), author of the original proposal fought determinedly by President Eisenhower, appealed to his followers to make known their backing for a modified plan he unveiled yesterday.

This revised proposal makes big concessions but still is far more sweeping than anything the administration has indicated it would accept.

Knowland had been trying to dispose of the Bricker proposal this week. It has been before the Senate for two weeks of debate while repeated efforts were made—with-out success—to compromise.

Knowland said in advance of today's session it might be possible to adopt two minor amendments to the Bricker proposal at this afternoon's session. But he added there will be no important rollcall tests until next week after next.

Speeches to Interfere

The week's delay is forced by the plans of many GOP senators to leave Washington for Lincoln Day speeches next week.

Meanwhile, Sen. George (D-Ga.) said in an interview that, whatever the final fate of the Bricker amendment, the debate on it will bring much closer scrutiny of treaties than ever before.

Presidents undoubtedly will be more careful about treaties they submit to the Senate as a result of the row stirred up by the Ohioan's proposed amendment, George said.

And, he went on, "an unfortunate by-product" probably will be that it will be more difficult to get pacts ratified by the Senate.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), a strong foe of the Bricker amendment, said in a speech last night he was convinced that out of "the heat and yes, the bitterness (of the dispute) will come a stronger America."

One important result already, he said, is "the bold, courageous and brilliant reassertion of leadership" on the part of President Eisenhower.

Split Seen Unchanged

As the Senate prepared to put the issue aside for 10 days, there appeared to be little change in the four-way split that makes it difficult for any constitutional change in treaty powers to get the necessary two-thirds vote.

One key senator predicted privately that the substitute for Bricker's plan advanced by George would attract the most support.

The Georgia senator's substitute says (1) that treaties and international agreements are void if they conflict with the Constitution and (2) that presidential agreements not subject to the Senate ratification shall not override domestic law unless Congress so votes.

Radar Meters Used To Catch Speeders

Radio Beams Scan Highway, Reading Appears on Dial

Electronic "eyes" have been brought into play by state highway patrolmen and city police in a campaign of more rigid enforcement of speed laws on city and county streets and highways.

The "eye" is a small black box mounted on the outside of the police car. It scans an area of the street or highway with radar beams. They bounce back to report what is "seen" to an electronic brain.

This brain computes the speed of all approaching objects and registers its findings on a meter.

AN OFFICER sitting inside the patrol car watches the meter and, if it shows a vehicle approaching at a speed greater than the speed limit, takes steps to bring about arrest of the driver.

As the speeding car passes, the observing patrolman jots down a description and license number. This information he radios to other patrol cars parked further down the road.

An officer in the car up ahead flags down the speeder. While he is making the arrest or issuing a citation to the driver other patrolmen take over his position to be ready to stop the next offender.

RARELY DO drivers attempt to pass up the officer waving them down, but those who do soon find a patrol car following them, for the cruisers are parked with their engines running at all times and are ready to give immediate chase.

For the technically minded, the electronic "eye" is called an electronic speed meter. It is a high frequency radio transmitter-receiver something on the order of radar. Using directional antennae it

SGT. F. J. BELLNER of the state highway patrol district headquarters points out the location of a speed meter warning sign to Marion Police Chief Tom Coon. Ohio law requires the sign to be posted no less than 750 feet and no more than 1,500 north of the speed meter. transmits a narrow beam in a given direction. As an object enters the beam, part of the radio waves are bounced back to the transmitter and requires so many millions of a second to travel from the transmitter to the object and back to the receiver. As the object moves closer to the transmitter, this time is shortened. Circuits in the receiver use this difference in time to activate the meter hand which is calibrated to indicate the speed of the approaching object in miles per hour.

ONE DAY last week, state patrolmen set up a speed meter on N. Main St. just north of the city limits. With Sgt. F. J. Bellner of the Bucyrus headquarters, operating the device and other patrolmen posted about half a mile further down the road, a total of seven motorists were arrested on charges of speeding 45 miles an hour in the 35 mile zone.

This week city police started using a similar device at various locations in the city. One requirement of state law is that a large goes to the National Foundation for Infant Paralysis to help carry on the prevention program with the new vaccine and gamma globulin, to help care for the 66,000 carry-over polio cases and for continued research and improvements. Approximately $75,000,000 is needed by the foundation to carry out its program during 1954.

The remaining 50 per cent is kept in the Marion County fund to care for and treat all polio cases. Whenever necessary, funds can be borrowed from the national foundation to care for local cases.

Presently, Marion County is contracting for 29 cases contracted during

The strike hit the city—third largest in the state—without warning yesterday during the afternoon rush hour. Thousands were stranded.

Neighbors Seek Freedom For FBI 'Most Wanted'

LOS ANGELES (U)—Alex R. Bryant, 48, was listed as one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives before his recent capture. But now nearly 100 neighbors and business associates want him.

They want him to stay here with his wife and baby in the suburban cottage on Mt. Washington, where his attorney says Bryant has led an exemplary life for nearly two years.

The wife, Mrs. Gladys Lawson, says the 100 friends and neighbors have signed two petitions to Gov. Goodwin J. Knight asking him to deny a request for extradition.

Bryant escaped from Michigan State Prison in January 1952 after serving 22 years of a life sentence for a series of robberies committed in 1929, when he was 24 years old. Prior to that he had served a reformatory term on a rape charge.

Molotov Attempting To Extend Kremlin's Power, Ministers Told

BERLIN (U)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, denouncing the Russian plan for German unification, told the Berlin conference today Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is trying to extend the Kremlin's power to the Rhine.

Dulles said Molotov had rejected a Western plan for unification of Germany through free elections because he is afraid that the 18 million Germans in the Communist zone "would overwhelmingly reject" its present Red regime.

"Mr. Molotov has good reason to be afraid," the American minister said.

Leads Off Attack

Dulles led off the Western attack on the Molotov plan, which he said follows the "tragic pattern by which the Soviet Union has spread Communist control over Eastern Europe since the war."

Dulles said Britain's Anthony Eden, France's Georges Bidault and he had come to Berlin two weeks ago hoping solutions would be found to the problem of German unity in a conference which at the outset carried the promise of easing world tension.

But, he said, the Molotov program which the Russian minister put before the conference yesterday shows "he has no intention of seriously seeking German unity with freedom."

"I would say to Mr. Molotov," Dulles declared, "that it is late, but not too late to redeem the promise of Berlin."

Government by Force

The cornerstone of the Russian program, Dulles said, is the Communist government of East Germany, which he declared was put in office and kept there by Soviet power. It would have been "forcibly ejected" by the workers of East Germany last June, Dulles asserted, had it not been for "elements of 22 Soviet divisions, including tanks and armored cars."

He referred to the workers' rebellion in which two million East Germans defied their government and the Russian occupation itself to show their resentment of Red rule.

The American statesman slashed at the Molotov plan, which would entrench the Red minority of East Germany in any future united government and he declared:

"In the name of peace, he (Mr. Molotov) proposes a method for extending the solid Soviet bloc to the Rhine."

"In the name of democracy, he has set forth the classic Communist pattern for extinguishing democracy as that word has been understood for 2,000 years."

Dulles leveled sharply at the

Dulles Delays Korea Decision

Diplomats Await U.S. Reply to Red Chinese

WASHINGTON (U)—Secretary of State Dulles in Berlin has stalled an American reply to Chinese and Korean Communist demands for renewal of preliminary peace talks at Panmunjom.

Dulles reportedly is waiting to sound out Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, as well as the British and French.

The State Department last Saturday cabled to Dulles the draft of a note to serve as the U.S. reply, it was learned, but thus far the department has received no word on whether he approves the suggested text.

Meanwhile, diplomats representing America's 16 Korean War allies are reported anxiously wondering what has happened to the note.

The foreign diplomats who approved a proposed draft at a State Department meeting 12 days ago expected the note would go out last weekend in time to reply to Red demands the Korean talks be resumed Feb. 1.

The State Department news division has refused to shed any light on this minor diplomatic mystery despite repeated questions by reporters during the past week.

Democrats Tab 'Truth Kits' as McCarthy foe

Committee Says GOP Senator Careless on Speech-Making Tours

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee said today it is sending "truth kits" ahead of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) to editors and party workers in the cities along his present speaking route.

The committee said in an accompanying letter it is providing the material because of indications that McCarthy "has been considerably more careless with the truth while speaking away from Washington than he has been in the capital, where he is under the scrutiny of reporters who have the facts readily available to enable them to check on his claims."

McCarthy opened his Lincoln Day tour last night in Charleston, W. Va., with a charge that the era of recent Democratic administrations was "20 years of treason."

The Wisconsin senator said the "able Democrat (is) . . . stitched with the ideology of a Truman; rotted by the deceit of an Acheson; corrupted by the Red slime of a White."

He said there were Democrats "who hold their heads high . . . and who refused to yield," but they were not numerous enough to "hold the lever that controlled the political destiny of a nation for two decades" and the result was "20 years of treason."

Speaking about the same time in Cheyenne, Wyo., Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell accused the Republican party of giving up its scruples and making "a new and massive attempt to win a national election through the systematic use of slander."

Mitchell said there was a "calculated, deliberate, nationwide campaign launched by the Republicans to try to paint the Democratic party as the party of communism—as the party of treason and disloyalty."

He denounced also what he called the philosophy of "what is good for big business is good for the country."

There was no immediate comment on McCarthy's statements from the two living persons he singled out for special mention—former President Harry S. Truman and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Harry Dexter White, who died in 1948, was the central figure in a furor that began last November when Atty. Gen. Brownell charged Truman promoted White in the face of FBI warnings he was a spy.

In his speech last night McCarthy predicted that a number of witnesses he has called in his Senate investigations subcommittee probe of security at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., "will go to jail for contempt."

Detailing, as he has before, what he termed the technical difficulties of bringing espionage charges, he said it is probable that no espionage cases will be developed from the investigation of the New Jersey radar center.

The Democratic committee said its "truth kits" contain material on Democratic officials' activities against communism and "a Democratic Digest article showing how Sen. McCarthy has smeared many innocent persons, including Gen. George C. Marshall and President Eisenhower, himself."

On the Republican ticket, C. O. Wheeler, representative to the Ohio Legislature from Morrow County has filed for that post. Unopposed on the Republican ticket are Gortley Rhodebeck, filling his second term, commissioner; Harold Taylor, county auditor; and acting Probate Judge John McMillan, who filed both for the unexpired term of Judge McKay and also for a new term.

On the Democratic party ticket, Lloyd Potter has filed for commissioner and Doyle Rusk has filed for representative to the general assembly. There are no contests in either party primary.

prices in the Marion area to be between 99 cents to $1.05 a pound, he said.

"We are all handling coffee at less mark-up than ever, in order to help the housewife," Bull explained. This selling price is below replacement costs of the coffee.

SPEAKING OF THE much discussed question of "who is to blame" for the rising coffee prices, Bull believes that "no one is to blame."

However, the trigger which set off the rising cost of coffee was a 50 per cent crop failure in Brazil and the other South American countries growing the majority of the world's coffee crop.

Several years ago, Bull recalled, the Brazilians had a surplus of coffee. The had so much, in fact, that there was not enough world demand for it. So part of that crop was destroyed.

FROM THAT TIME to now, the growers have been planting comparatively less coffee. This fact, with the unanticipated crop damage last season, makes it easier for consumers to understand the shortage and resulting higher prices paid today.

And even if Brazilians do begin to grow coffee again in large quantities, it will take some time before there will be a plentiful supply, Bull said, since it takes five years for a coffee plant to produce the coffee bean.

So, there doesn't seem to be too good a prospect for the prices to go down in 1954 or 1955, since most grocers feel that the coffee market has not reached its peak as yet.

GROCERS IN THE Marion area have begun to notice an increasing customer resistance to buying the coffee at the higher prices. They can't quite understand this, since wholesalers supplying them with coffee tell them that Marion has the lowest coffee prices in effect in the state.

However, with the understanding of consumers as to the problems involved in the "battle of the coffee prices," Bull is sure that Marion housewives will look with favor on the effort of the coffee roaster, wholesaler and retailer to keep prices as low as possible.

Dancer Argues Bites of Rabid Dogs Not Fatal

Shelter Founder Is Willing To Face Death In Fight Against Order

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Irene Castle Enzinger, the former internationally famed dancer and founder of an animal shelter, was reported by the Sun-Times today as "willing" to be bitten by a rabid dog "to prove" what she contends is "the folly" of an order that all dogs in Chicago be vaccinated against rabies.

The Sun-Times said Mrs. Enzinger related she would "back her medicine-defying proposition with $5,000."

"Ridiculous," said Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, who had requested the inoculation order from the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

"No one can prove that a person bitten by a rabid dog ever died as a result," Mrs. Enzinger was quoted by the Sun-Times. "I'm willing to be so bitten."

"She would most certainly die," said Dr. Bundesen, and the Sun-Times quoted Mrs. Enzinger: "I'll put up $5,000 that I don't get rabies. Orphans of the storm (the animal shelter near suburban Deerfield which she founded) has never in 26 years produced a case of rabies in a person bitten by a dog."

"I'm against inoculation because it paralyzes the hind legs of dogs. This whole business is causing needless hysteria—and it's opening up rich profits on vaccine."

Dr. Bundesen said if Mrs. Enzinger were bitten by a rabid dog and did not receive the vaccine shots that are necessary, "she would die."

"It must be remembered," the health department president said, "that there are 100,000 stray dogs in Chicago. As a medical man, I must look at this as an emergency. I can understand her position, as a lover of dogs."

Bunden added "We must prevent an epidemic."

Florida Youth Killed by Train South of Ashley

DELAWARE — A 19-year-old Tampa, Fla., youth was killed and his 17-year-old brother critically injured when their car was struck early this morning by a New York Central passenger and express train just off U. S. Route 42, three miles south of Ashley.

Kenneth O'Connell, 19, was dead on arrival at Jane M. Case Hospital here at 1 a.m. today and his younger brother, Michael, 17, a passenger in the car, was in critical condition. He suffered a skull fracture.

Delaware County sheriff's deputies said the accident occurred about 12:20 a.m. at the crossing on the Bell-Moloney Road near Ashley when the eastbound car drove onto the tracks in front of the train. The auto was torn into several pieces and parts of it were strewn for 200 feet down the track. Other parts were tossed some 25 feet away from the tracks.

Both youths were thrown from the car. The victim's body was found alongside the tracks. Cause of death was a skull fracture.

Engineer of the train was Henry Elwig of Gallon. Lee's ambulance from Ashley removed the youth to the hospital. Later the victim's body was taken to the Lee Funeral Home in Ashley, pending funeral arrangements.

The youth's mother said in a telephone conversation with sheriff's officials that she did not know where the boys were going, that they had just started out.

Man Files Plea Of Not Guilty to Assault Charge

Harold David Walker, 26 of 376 Nye St. entered a plea of not guilty in Marion Municipal Court Thursday afternoon to a charge of criminally assaulting an eight-year-old girl.

Judge W. Dexter Hazen set a bond of $5,000 pending Walker's appearance in Municipal Court for an arraignment on the charge. No date has been set for the arraignment. Unable to post the bond, Walker is being held in the Marion County jail.

He was arrested Feb. 1 and held for investigation after police were informed by city hospital the girl was treated there last Friday night. Police were first told the girl was injured in a fall at her home.

However, she was returned to the hospital the next day in critical condition and police were again called into the case. Walker was picked up Saturday afternoon.

At the time of his arrest, Walker was free on a $1,000 bond from Marion County Common Pleas Court pending the start of a one to seven year term in the Mansfield Reformatory on a charge of grand larceny.

This term was scheduled to begin Feb. 21. The sentence was imposed Jan. 21 by Judge Paul D. Smith after Walker pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Smith gave him a month to put his affairs in order before starting to serve the jail term.

Russian in the full knowledge that Molotov's uncompromising attitude on German unification has virtually killed that subject in this parley unless something very surprising happens.

He blasted the Soviet zone government for daring to presume equal rights with the freely elected West German regime and referring to the East, he said:

"It is that regime which under the Soviet plan would negotiate on a basis of equality with the government of the (West) German federal republic. However, the scales are to be still further weighted in favor of the Soviet puppet regime, because it is provided by the Soviet plan these initial negotiations shall also involve 'twice participation' of democratic organizations."

The Western delegations claimed Molotov had pierced his own bubble by insisting that Germany could be united only as a defenseless, neutralized nation in which Communists would hold high posts—ready for a final Red takeover later. But they wanted to make sure all this was spelled out for the public to understand clearly.

School Student Appointed to Traffic Group

Marion teen-agers will be represented at future meetings of the city traffic commission.

Mayor Harold F. Robinson has appointed Gilbert Herr, president of the Harding High School student council, as a member of the commission.

Mayor Robinson said he made the appointment because of the increase in the number of traffic accidents and arrests involving teen-age drivers in the city during the last year. He said the increase has been "something like 30 per cent."

Herr, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Herr of 1157 E. Church St., attended his first meeting Thursday night.

At the meeting, held jointly with the streets and alley committee of City Council, discussion centered on the Church St. parking problem. Mayor Robinson said recommendation would be made at Council's meeting Monday night.

Police Captain Clyde Hardin is chairman of the traffic commission and Councilman Ralph E. Williams, fourth ward, is chairman of the streets and alleys committee.

Gag on Press

SOKOLSKY

For quite a bit, judges and lawyers have been quarreling over the right of the people to know what is going on about them, particularly as regards criminals. Louis Waldman is chairman of a committee of the New York State Bar Association which has issued a recommendation to gag the press on pre-trial reporting that could be interpreted to mean that the press should be silent until a case has reached the United States Supreme Court, four or five years away. What a wonderful thing that would have been for the Rosenbergs!

WALDMAN CITED an example in a speech he delivered presenting his report which completely shows the weakness of his thinking. Here it is:

"Within the last month a young woman student at a college close by New York City was viciously and brutally attacked. Two young men, one 18 and the other 21, were apprehended that very night by the police and placed under arrest for this atrocious crime. The police, in announcing the arrest of these youths, then proceeded to report that they had made a full confession admitting the assault and the press naturally carried this alleged confession as a prominent part of the story."

Waldman does not deny the rape, the confession, the guilt or anything about the case. He only says that Americans get emotional when their daughters or their neighbors' daughters get raped by hoodlums.

He objects to the publication of such news because the rapist thereupon faces an irate public. Does he wish the fathers of the community to form a reception committee for the rapists and present the beasts with bouquets of roses?

NOW ALONG comes another lawyer, Edwin M. Otterbourg, president of the New York County Lawyers' Association, who has this to say:

"But the one great industry, the important fourth estate, has not yet adopted any enforceable code of ethics. To the contrary, each newspaper thinks it can be its own judge and jury as to what it is right and wrong to do with respect to the reporting of litigations."

"It seems that in some fields, rights which have been given by law are being so abused that the time may come when the people who make the laws abridge these rights."

No newspaper instructs a reporter to commit a murder so that more newspapers will be sold. The murder is committed by the murderer, the rape by the rapist, the mugging by the mugger, the treachery by the traitor.

When the deed is done, there are four parties at interest, if we use a murder as an example:

1. The murdered person.
2. Those who are deprived of the life, the company, and sometimes the support of the murdered person.
3. The community which is entitled to peace and order and which pays heavily in taxes to see to it that murders do not take place.

By George Sokolsky

4. The murderer, usually a person without whom the community can well exist.

WHILE IT IS true that the murderer is entitled to a fair trial, it is also true that the murdered person is entitled to a fair trial, and it is also true that the community is justified in demanding that the malefactor be punished.

The assumption that because a man has kidnapped a child, murdered the little boy, taken ransom money from his parents, broken their hearts and probably their lives, robbed a nation of parents of their peace of mind—the assumption that after a moron has done that, all human emotions should be repressed in his interest is arrant nonsense.

True, newspaper reporting makes it tough on lawyers whose interest is to get their clients off, to have a sentence reduced from first degree murder to manslaughter, to have him imprisoned instead of executed, to get him a parole or a reprieve or a pardon. But that is not the public interest.

It must be admitted that some newspapers emphasize the sensational rather than the important, that in some the news is slanted by overemphasis or even distortion. But in the United States, there is such a variety of newspapers, radio and television reporting and news weeklies that the reader can select for himself that which he believes to be true.

No one forces him to accept any one medium. No one deprives him of a different presentation. A free press is one which can be different and diverse in freedom.

Toledo Engineers To Plan Sewage System in Upper

UPPER SANDUSKY—The Upper Sandusky Village Council has approved the employment of H. A. Stepleton and Co., consulting engineers of Toledo, to draw up plans, specifications and estimates of cost for the proposed new sewage disposal system.

H. A. Stepleton, president of the Toledo engineering firm, estimated the cost of installing a disposal plant here would cost approximately $300,000. Under present plans, it is anticipated bonds will be issued to mature in 25 years to cover the cost of the work and will be retired from receipts of the present sewer rental. This will mean no additional taxes for the village residents.

Council voted to instruct village solicitor, William J. Hunter, to draw up the necessary legislation preparatory to employing the Stepleton firm.

Council also granted the Ohio Power Co. permission to use the west water tower for installation of a radio transmitting antenna and equipment.

Harry's Boys

The meeting of the Big 17 in Miami Beach is being followed more closely by more congressmen than are watching the meeting of the Big Four in Berlin.

And you can say almost as much for the White House.

The Big 17 are the national AFL leaders whose actions may change the power balance in Congress — and leave President Eisenhower in such an unstrategic position after the 1954 elections that he may have to consult with these labor leaders before making any decisions on national or international politics.

For the AFL Executive Council session, despite Jimmy Petullo's clowning and mimicry, is essentially a serious political parley aimed at smashing the Republicans' hold on Congress.

The labor leaders figure they can take enough seats from the GOP this fall to override even a combine of Republicans and Southern Democrats. And they've laid out in their special reports submitted by their national political director, Jim McDevitt, so that it resembles a massive union organizing campaign.

THEY ARE, for example, going into 87 congressional districts where Republicans can be defeated by a shift of five per cent of the vote. Typical of the detailed field work done is a campaign outlined by AFL vice-president David Dubinsky, one of the federation's political brains.

Dubinsky has already alerted the 430,000 members of his Ladies' Garment Workers Union, including those in New York's Liberal party, to be active in 58 of these 87 districts. These he calls the "tight squeeze" areas. He has local unions in each of them.

His political department has prepared a five-point program of activity for "from now until November" aimed at swinging just one vote in 20 away from the GOP — to the Democratic party.

The union's political strategists have planned a propaganda campaign which includes material for their union headquarters, shops in which the members work and anywhere else in the precinct where people gather in the 58 "tight squeeze" spots.

JUST APPLY this technique to any state — say, Pennsylvania. There, the 1500 union locals affiliated with the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor have 800,000 members.

Each member will be reached by his international union, working with the former state federation president, Jim McDevitt, who arrived in Miami last Saturday to brief the Big 17.

In other states, Missouri, for example, the AFL political set-up is organized like a political party-state organization, with two members from each local going to control meetings as though they were state committeemen.

Of course, the White House is eager to head off this political machine — and personal conversations with some labor chiefs have been conducted by President Eisenhower, Vice-President Nixon, Secretary of Labor Mitchell, and the White House's "anonymous" Max Raab. But when Mitchell gets to Florida to speak to the AFL leaders, he'll find few political friends.

The Republicans have been told in the past few weeks that the merely coddling herself? Why not coddle him for a change?

HERE ARE A FEW ways any strapping wife can give that man in her life a thrill, and let him know he got more than a barnacle when he married her:

1. Serve him breakfast in bed at least twice a week.

2. Don't keep asking him if he really loves you. On the other hand don't keep telling him how mad you are about him. Just tell him whenever he looks blue, "Boy, oh boy, am I glad you took me out from behind that counter in Klotz's five-and-ten-cent store, and gave me a nice house to loaf in. It takes a guy with a real heart to give a dizzy blonde like me a break like that, and don't think I don't know it." This kind of love talk makes sense to a man.

3. Surprise him with little special witty attentions, such as, for example, cutting the lawn yourself, polishing the family car, or pumping up a flat tire. The gentle light of joy that lights up in your husband's weary face will more than repay you.

4. Take in washing. This will enable you to earn the extra pin money your husband needs to indulge in weekly poker games with the boys at his office. There are probably dozens of people right in your own neighborhood who will be glad to give their business to you instead of a professional laundry. One wife earned so much money this way her grateful husband bought her a second machine on their wedding anniversary, and now she can handle twice as much work. There happy home life is the talk of the whole community.

By Victor Riesel

teamsters' union president, Dave Beck, is not out to fight like—but the local teamsters in the key states are bucking the administration.

Beck isn't likely to try to keep them out of politics, because he doesn't want to get into another fight inside the AFL's high command. He has taken on a man-sized battle already in his efforts to get John Lewis into the AFL as soon as possible despite the feud between George Meany and Lewis.

BECK HAS TOLD some AFL chiefs he would like Lewis in and that he will continue to meet with Lewis, even if the miners are not admitted.

At the same time, some AFL chiefs have approached Meany and are urging the AFL president to get the jump on Beck by moving for John Lewis' admittance.

So there is a chance that Lewis will be back in the federation this Spring. If he does return, his Labor's Non-Partisan League will work very closely with the AFL's Labor League for Political Education.

This would be a powerful combine, especially in some areas in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois and West Virginia.

Lewis' League has slipped from public eye, but it has three important full-time lobbyists in Washington and political liaison men in most of the big coal areas.

The multi-millions in money and manpower available to such a combination, coupled with the Democratic machine and a parallel campaign by CIO, would give the Republicans a tough fight for control of the slimly held House and Senate next fall.

So the Big 17 are being closely watched by the White House. (Post Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

Tip to Wives

NEW YORK

Many thoughtful wives today are asking themselves, "What can I do to show my husband how much I appreciate him?"

I heard one wife recently who surprised her husband on his birthday by handing him the paid-up deed to a lot in an ultra exclusive cemetery—a lot with a fine view and plenty of sunshine, all for his very own self.

"Honey," she told him, "after you're gone, I want you to know you'll be in good company. There isn't a better location in the whole cemetery, and I want to tell you from my heart that I feel there isn't a man in town who has earned it more than you."

Well, this particular husband was so touched by this evidence of his wife's solicitude he broke down and cried, and later went out and bought her a fur coat.

HOWEVER, all husbands are not as high class as this man. To put it bluntly, they feel, as one, told me recently, "Just once I'd like to get something from a woman while I'm alive."

What can a conscientious wife do to win and hold the love of the average husband, so that he will remain her boy, friend instead of becoming her sparring partner?

Too often women think the way to do this is to spend money on clothing and beauty treatments to make themselves more attractive. But really isn't such a wife merely coddling herself? Why not coddle him for a change?

HERE ARE A FEW ways any strapping wife can give that man in her life a thrill, and let him know he got more than a barnacle when he married her:

1. Serve him breakfast in bed at least twice a week.

2. Don't keep asking him if he really loves you. On the other hand don't keep telling him how mad you are about him. every time your husband has a vacation? Why not let him take at least one vacation by himself each year? And why not help him make it a really carefree one? A wife by selling magazine subscriptions in her spare time can earn enough in a few months to send her husband on a nice restful voyage to Bermuda. Think of all the interesting things he will have to tell you when he returns. Make him promise to bring you back a sea shell.

ANY WIFE WITH a little ingenuity can probably think up dozens of other stimulating ways to pep up her marriage and win her husband's heart anew.

The big idea is to make the guy feel more important, and that you are in there pitching every moment to keep your romance alive.

Remember, the more things a wife does for her husband, the more he feels he loves her for herself alone.

Talks Not Complete Failure

U.S. Hopes To Strengthen Big 3 Position at Berlin

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Watching the foreign ministers' conference in Berlin has been like looking into a refrigerator, there you could see how cold the cold war really is.

For mankind the view was chilling: the meeting has produced no cracks in the ice, no sign of melting. But no one had predicted otherwise. Optimism about the meeting was zero before it began.

The ministers—the United States, Britain's Eden, France's Bidault, Russia's Molotov—have been polite, have dined together, and haven't changed views which have been frozen solid for years.

Miracles aside, the best the United States could hope for out of the conference was

1. That it would end with the partnership between this country, Britain and France as firm as ever, in spite of any Molotov tricks. It seems to have suffered no damage so far.

2. That the United States would be able to outdo Molotov in winning friends through the statement of its case, which was already well known anyway.

The most Russia probably hoped to gain was a weakening of the American-British-French partnership. The meeting isn't over. Molotov may yet pull out an ace. For instance, the French would probably jump at the chance if he suggested a way to end their war with the Communists in Indochina. After losing men and money there for years, they're sick of it.

(The United States, which has been trying to bolster up French resistance, is afraid that a poor settlement by the French in Indochina might open the door to the Communists' taking over all South-east Asia.)

If the price the French had to pay Molotov for a settlement was more delay, or flat refusal, in joining the European Defense Community—the single European army—they might be willing to buy.

So far the French have not joined EDC, against all United States urgings. They may continue to hold back even if Molotov makes no offer at all. If Molotov could wreck EDC, his Berlin trip would have been worthwhile for him.

Instead of jailing the French, Molotov may already have scared them with his ideas on the future of Germany.

Main reason for French delay in joining EDC—which would include rearmament West Germans in a single army with the French—is fear of seeing Germany start to rearm.

Molotov played on that by suggesting East and West Germany be allowed to unite and then be kept unarmed. On the face of it, an unarmed Germany seemed right in line with French desires.

They'd have to think twice about it, of course, since a Germany kept unarmed would be a broad highway for Russian armies if they ever began a sweep west.

But Molotov's next suggestion was enough to jolt the French: that East and West Germany unite in a single government made up of those now in the governments of both Germanies.

With German Communists in the new government the door would be open for them to take over all Germany. The French would be helpless then if such a new Communist Germany a Russian satellite, began rearming.

A&P Closing 153 Eastern Stores in Warehouse Strike

SCRANTON, Pa. (U)—The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. says it will close indefinitely some 153 stores through northeastern Pennsylvania and lower New York in a dispute with AFL warehousemen. In advertisements appearing in today's papers throughout the area, the food chain said it was unable to make deliveries to the stores because of a strike of 200 members of Scranton local 229, general drivers and helpers union. The stores are to be closed starting at 6 p.m. (EST) tomorrow. The warehousemen struck at midnight last Sunday. Though both union and company officials have refused to discuss the dispute, it was reported that a wage increase and improved working conditions were the principal issues. The company offered a 10-cent-an-hour increase. Present wage scales were not disclosed. The Scranton warehouses are the main supply point for an area from Pottsville, Pa., to Liberty, N.Y., and from the Portland-Stroudsburg, Pa., section to Towanda, Pa., on the New York-Pennsylvania border.

Too Many Whales, Skipper of Fishing Boat Pulls Anchor

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (U)—The skipper of a fishing boat yesterday told of hooking a whale on a fish line and witnessing a collision between two other whales, all within the space of 30 minutes. Harold W. Hanson, skipper of the Lucky II, said he was fishing at the edge of kelp beds offshore when one of his hooks caught either a part of the lobe of the whale's tail or became entangled in the mass of barnacles that encrusted the mammal's side. Hanson said the whale surfaced, spouted and then headed south at full speed, snapping the fishing gear. The fisherman said he then sighted two other whales bearing down on his small boat, but they suddenly swerved and crashed into each other head on. He then got out of the area as fast as the Lucky II could go.

Prize Cow Pays Off

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (U)—Willowmere Pristine won first prize in the aged-cow class at the Anne Arundel County Fair last summer. Last month the 8-year-old registered Guernsey gave birth to triplets. Commenting on the rare birth, owner Leroy Hersey said: "It's like striking pay dirt."

Church at Bucyrus Plans Face-Lifting

BUCYRUS — Rev. Brice L. Chudester, pastor of Bucyrus St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church, announced today that the congregation has approved a re-decorating and refinishing project, which will cost an estimated $8,849. The project calls for replastering of the ceiling with an acoustic plaster, refinishing of pews and floors, new carpeting and lighting and the purchase of a new altar, reredos, pulpit, lectern and choir pews. The plans call for a divided chancel. The new altar will be given in memory of Anna Kessler, late of Bucyrus, and the pulpit in memory of Miss Clara Gehrisch, who died here sometime ago. Both women bequeathed money to the church.

Girl Collapses During Basketball Game, Dies

PORT LEYDEN, N. Y. (U)—Tumult shook the packed gym when David Sessions, 16-year-old sophomore, sank the basket that gave the Port Leyden Central School junior varsity a 27-26 win over West Leyden. In the happy hysteria that swept the Port Leyden cheering section last night, a 17-year-old girl collapsed. Sally Sessions, a senior cheering her brother's winning shot, was given artificial resuscitation on the 45-mile ambulance ride to Watertown. At the hospital she was pronounced dead of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Cleveland Stricken, Dies in Dental Chair

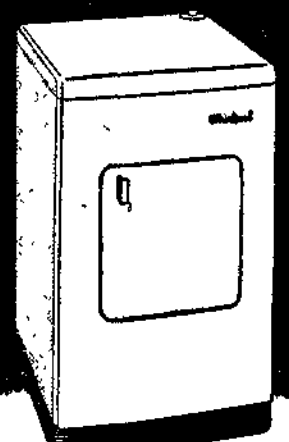

CLEVELAND (U)—A physician slit open the man's chest and massaged his still heart while a dentist applied oxygen in an unsuccessful attempt to revive a 58-year-old businessman who died in the dentist's chair after removal of six teeth yesterday. Police said the man, James M. Smith, had been given an anesthetic and had regained consciousness briefly. Then he lapsed into a coma. The dentist summoned the physician. The man died an hour later.

Dancer's Contract Voided by Judge

BALTIMORE (U)—A judge has voided the contract in which he said Pat (Amber) Halliday, 28-year-old strip-tease dancer, "sold herself down the river." The contract was with Jack A. White of Hyattsville, Md., who had been Miss Halliday's manager about four years. It called for a 50-50 split, but the dancer said she frequently got very little of her weekly pay, which sometimes reached $500. "Only enough for the bare necessities," she told Judge Herman A. Moser.

The stripper said she was fed up with taking her clothes off in front of people and continued to work because she owes the government income taxes.

Bible Words to Live by

LUKE 12:7—"But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered."

In a world of hydrogen bombs, jet planes, and space measured in millions of light years I need the personal reassurance of these words of Christ. Can even an intelligent Universe, so vast, regard an individual person?

Some years ago the late Dr. Albert Bevan by an apt experiment answered this question for me — The law of gravitation governs the mighty forces of the Universe. Would such a law, busy with galaxies and nebulae, pay any attention to a tiny bit of paper I hold in my hand? I turn it loose. It falls. I can depend on it. The universal law of gravity deals with the cosmic and the microscopic, with the vast and with the minute — That's what makes it a law!

God deals with the Universe and with the individual person — That's what makes him God! He is both a Cosmic Force and a Heavenly Father.

"But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered" — Jesus spoke out of his intimate experience of God. Confronted by the newly-revealed vastness of the Universe — I know that God still cares.

Eaton Purchases Spring Company

Eaton Manufacturing Co. of Cleveland has acquired all the common stock of the Spring Perch Co. of Lackawanna, N. Y. This company produces chassis springs, principally for trucks.
Eaton's Spring Division in Detroit is one of the larger manufacturers of coil and leaf chassis springs. The acquisition of this company will place Eaton in a position to better serve the industry in all localities. C. I. Ochs, board chairman of Eaton, said. He reported existing facilities will be improved and expanded to take care of future potential requirements that cannot be handled at the Detroit plant.
The Spring Perch Co. will be operated as a subsidiary of Eaton, which has a plant in Marion.

Harding in Cage Game Tonight; Irish Play Saturday

Presidents After Revenge Against Findlay's Trojans

Harding's eagles entertain Findlay's Trojans on the local hardwood tonight at a Buckeye League match.

The locals will be after their initial league win after dropping all six starts. Findlay, second in the league standings with a 4-2 mark, will be out to make it two in a row over the Prexies.

In the earlier Buckeye League contest on the Findlay floor, the Trojans handed Jim Lawler's forces 55-46, handing Harding its third straight loss after four successive opening season wins.

Harding went on to drop two more games before tripping Shelby and will take a 6-8 mark into tonight's fray here. The Presidents downed Galion 78-62 in their last start and in the previous outing, fell short of beating Bowling Green by one point, 63-62.

Probable starters for the visitors will be Ray Siferd and Rod Shafer at the forwards; Jim Ganes at center; and John Johnson and Dave Miller at the guards. Sixth man is Tom Gulker.

Miller, Findlay's 6-4 rebound artist, pumped in 29 points against the Prexies the last time to pace the Findlay offense. Ganes had 11 and Johnson accounted for 10.

Ron Conroy and Dave Schnelker were tops for Harding in that meeting with 14 points apiece. Conroy hit for 16 in the clash with Galion last Tuesday to run his season scoring total to 197 points, tops on the Harding squad. Schnelker, who has 102 points for the season, hit for seven.

Bob Hamor is currently the No. 2 scorer for Harding with 133 points while Don Smith has notched 128, Doug Bibler 119, Max Kaelber 89, and Phil Carroll 44.

Tonight's game will start the locals on the trail toward the end of the regular season. Three straight Buckeye League battles after tonight face the locals.

Findlay's Buckeye League slate to date shows wins over Tiffin Columbian, 51-47 and 44-30, Fostoria 46-45 and Harding and losses to Fremont 63-55 and Bowling Green 38-31.

Harding's competition in the league has ended in losses to Bowling Green 76-53 and 63-62, Tiffin 76-70, Fostoria 79-43, Fremont 72-63 and Findlay.

Brennan Steals Show at Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Men of long-standing football fame were there, to be sure, but it seemed all eyes were focused on a young man who was a comparative unknown only a week ago.

Young Terry Brennan, new head coach at Notre Dame, was making his first major public appearance last night at the Detroit Times Downtown Quarterback dinner, and he handled himself with a sureness that usually only comes with years of experience.

The 25-year-old Irishman told an intent audience:

"I've stepped into some big shoes which can only be filled by hard work. I'm going to provide that hard work."

He had followed to the podium such football greats as Biggie Munn, Johnny Lattner, Forest Evashevski—but yet he received the biggest ovation.

His presence was the highlight of the Times annual affair. Lattner, Notre Dame's All-America halfback, was honored as "Player of the Year" and Forest Evashevski of Iowa as "Coach of the Year."

Among those also honored was Otto Graham, quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, as "Pro Player of the Year."

Cameron Joins Johnny Lattner With Steelers

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Paul Cameron, flashy UCLA halfback, has become the second All-America backfield star to agree to play for the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers and Steeler President Art Rooney is the most jubilant man in town.

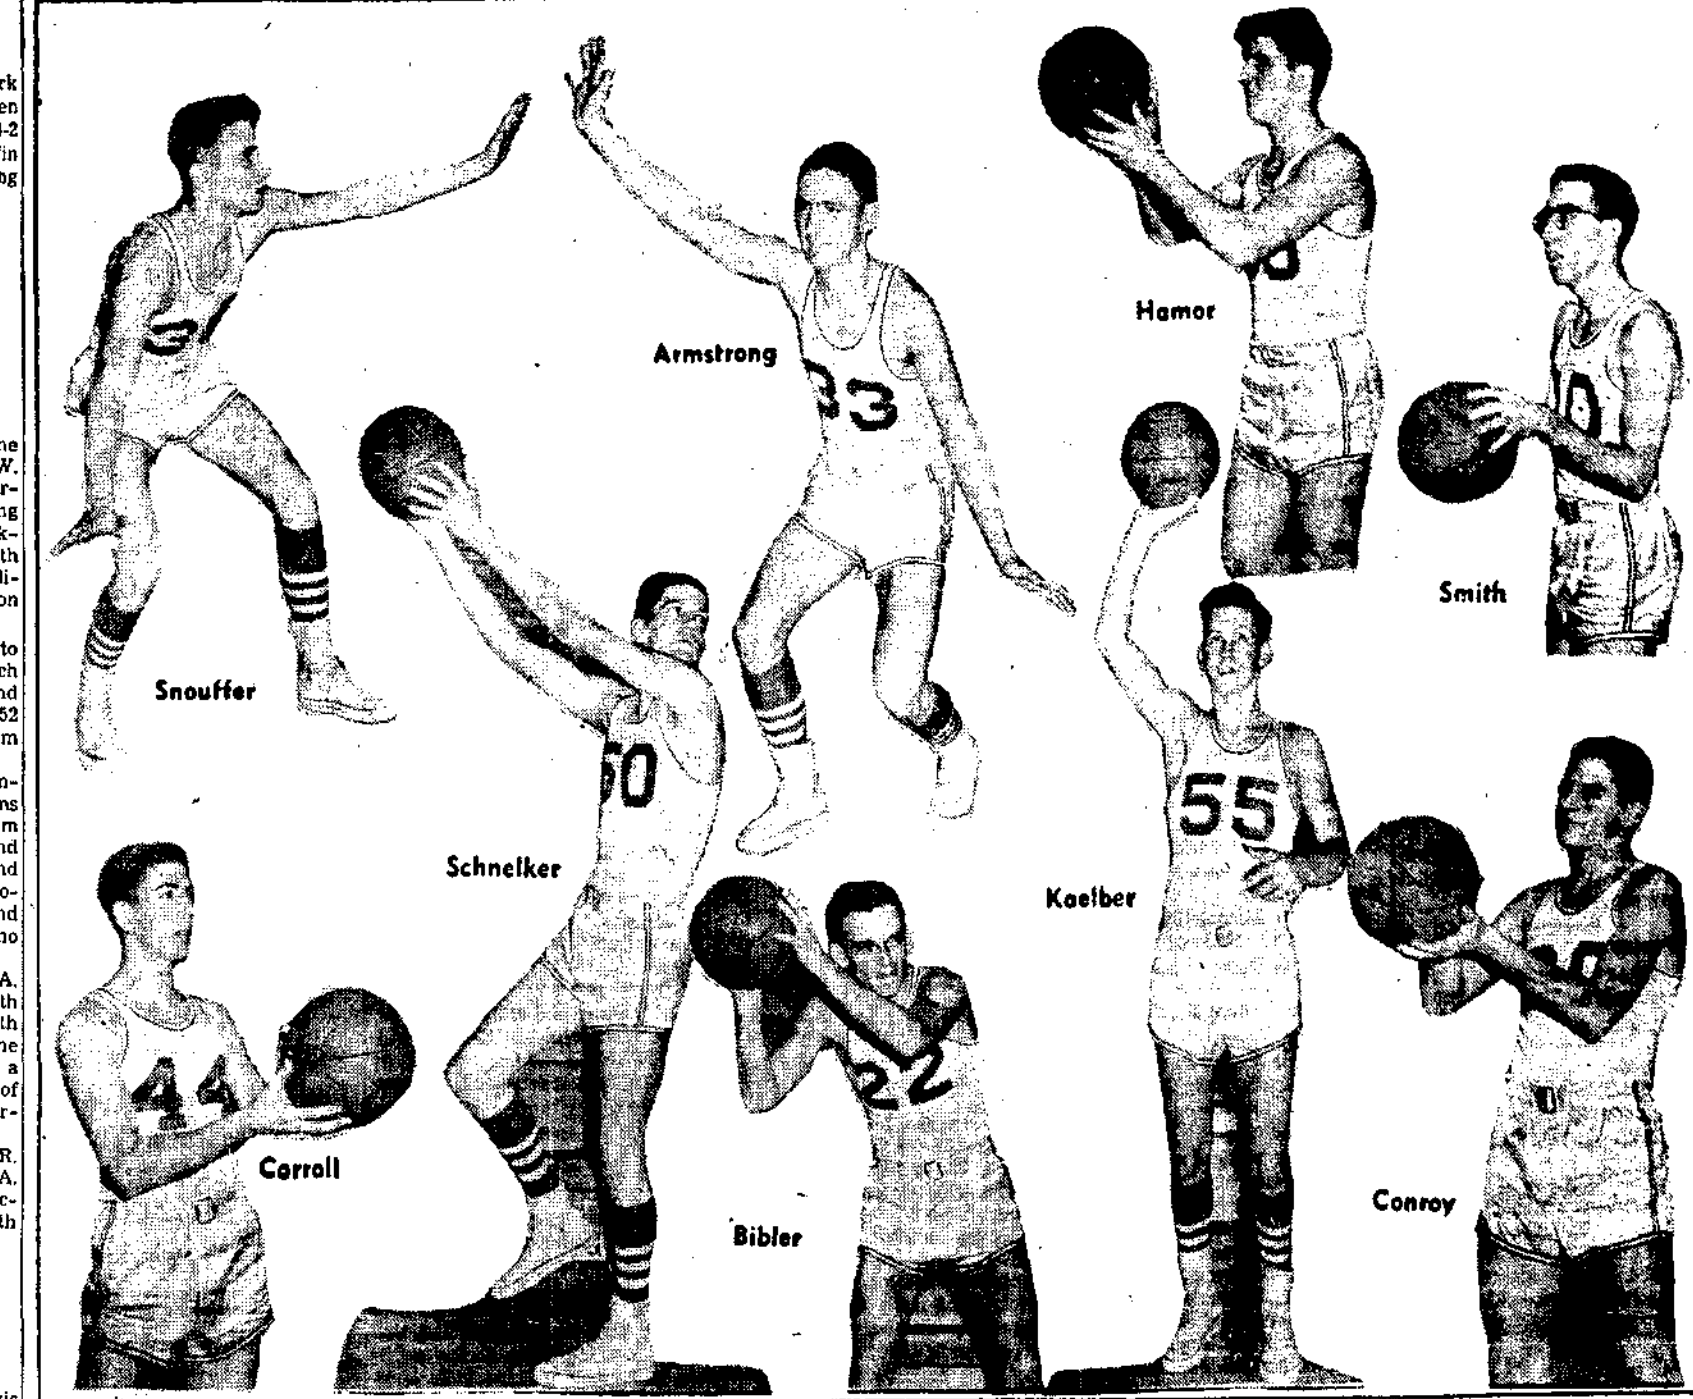

"With Cameron and Johnny Lattner we should have the best backfield in the National League," Rooney declared.

Cameron agreed to terms last night from Los Angeles. The transaction, handled by phone, is scheduled to be completed sometime today when Cameron goes through the formality of signing a contract with a West Coast representative of the Steelers.

The Steelers didn't reveal what they are paying the All-America players but sources close to the club indicated each will get around $10,000 for one-year contracts.

Alastair B. Martin of Glen Head, N. Y., won the national amateur court tennis title in 1953 for the fourth straight time.

These Prexies Ready for Invasion From Findlay

MEMBERS OF THE Harding School at the Harding gym. The Harding team snapped a losing streak Tuesday night with a 78-62 win over Galion. Although a total of 67 fouls were called for a total of 108 shots, only one Harding player fouled out, along with two from Galion. The Harding quintet will be seeking its first victory in Buckeye League play.

Bryant Quits Kentucky Job, Takes Post at Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Paul (Bear) Bryant, noted re-builder of football fortunes, comes here next week to start doing a job on the sagging Texas Aggies at the highest salary ever paid a coach in Aggieland—$15,000 a year.

The handsome, personable coach of Kentucky yesterday accepted a six-year contract and will succeed Ray George as head man of football and also will take over the job of athletic director.

Texas obtained Bryant after a month's search during which it raised its sights from a three-year contract at $12,000 a year to the proposition that could lure the big fellow from a top job at Kentucky.

He had nine years to go on his contract there and Kentucky was paying him a salary variously placed at $12,000 to $17,000 a year.

George, who in three years as head coach at $10,500 a year won 12 games while losing 14 and tying 4, resigned Jan. 4 amid rumblings of discontent from the alumni.

A&M hasn't won a Southwest Conference championship since 1941.

Bryant pulled Maryland from the doldrums in 1945 with a 6-2-1 record, then moved to Kentucky where, in eight years, he won 60 games, lost 23 and tied 5, and had his team in four bowl games. His first year at Kentucky saw him compile a 7-3 record—the best at the school in 34 years. He won the Southeastern Conference championship in 1950.

All told some 45 men were considered for the job here but most of them eliminated themselves from consideration. When it was offered to Bryant yesterday, there was only one applicant on the list—Mike Michalske, line coach of the Aggies.

Bryant was given a free rein in naming his assistants and he also will say whether Barlow Irvin, the present athletic director, stays in the athletic department.

Garcia Pins Lewis In Armory Match

Aztec Garcia whipped Jim Lewis in one of the two out of three falls no time limit bouts last night at the armory.

He took the first fall after 24 minutes with a Mexican hangman's hold but Lewis evened the count in the second fall with a flying tackle after only eight minutes.

The bout ended when Garcia grabbed Lewis as the highway patrolman was assisting the referee to his feet.

In the other bout, the midjet team of Lou Darling and Tito Infanti won over Tuffy McRay and Otto Bowman. The losers took the first fall when McRay pinned Infanti after 21 minutes with a body press. Infanti evened the score when he got McRay with a jack-knife after 13 minutes in the second fall. Darling won the deciding fall when McRay missed on an attempted drop kick and was pinned after 14 minutes.

Marion Barons Take 4-3 Verdict From Troy Bruins

Schultz, Poeta and Jones Lead Attack; Toledo Beaten

TROY—In one of the best hockey games seen on the local ice all season the Marion Barons edged the Troy Bruins 4-3 last night before 2,269 frenzied fans.

The Barons won the first period 2-1 on goals by Poeta and Jones. Toledo's Mercurys were handed a 2-1 defeat by the collar-dwelling Milwaukee Chiefs. Marion now holds a three-point edge over the Mercurys — 58-55.

It was a good clean, hard checking game in which Referee Mickey Drouillard handed out only six penalties—three on each team.

Marion's starting line of Ken Schultz, Tony Poeta and Hal Jones was the main factor of the Barons' victory as this trip accounted for all four of the scores.

Poeta was the hero with a pair of goals while Jones and Schultz each counted once.

The visiting club took a 1-0 lead in the first period when Jones slammed in a screen shot from about 10 feet inside the blue line with the game just one minute old. Ted Leblond set up the play with a cross rink pass to Jones.

Marion went ahead 2-1 at 3:07 of the second frame when Schultz tallied from right in front on a three-way play with Jones and Poeta drawing assists.

Troy's Red McElroy got one of these back at 8:39 when he shot in a screamer from about 15 feet out with help from Steve Gaber and Bobby Manson.

Gordon Buttrely of the Bruins blinked the red light for the equalizer at 8:18 on a neat play when he lofted the puck over the left shoulder of Goaltender Lou Crowdis after a nifty pass from George Edwards. New Bruin Don Crawford, recently acquired from Grand Rapids, also assisted on the play.

At 19:32 Marion forged out front 3-2 as Poeta skated in alone from the right side as a Troy defender left the wing unguarded. Jones and Schultz were credited with assists.

Troy deadlocked the issue once more at 5:33 of the last period as Bobby Rawlyk beat Crowdis from right in front with help from Julius Swick and Bud Laidler.

Marion's winning counter came with just 2:35 left with Poeta slamming in the disc from about 15 feet out with Schultz and Jones assisting.

Troy Coach Norm McAtee pulled Goaltender Julian Klymkiw from the nets with 1:39 left but the Bruins were unable to take advantage.

Marion will see action Saturday night at Toledo and will then return here for a game Sunday afternoon against the revamped Fort Wayne Komets. A special bus is

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

Hank Greenberg set a new record for clinching the American League pennant Wednesday night at Mansfield. Hank gave a forecast of the coming season during a meeting at which the Indians entertained sportswriters from north central Ohio.

And according to Greenberg, it's in the bag. "All the Tribe need do is lay back and wait for the aged New York Yankees to fall apart at the seams."

After informing about 50 writers and broadcasters that the Indians were the nearest thing to perfect in the major leagues, Hank admitted he had been working overtime and will continue to do so in an effort to bolster the team at the trading block.

DURING HIS trade discussion, Hank pointed out just two things. These were the fact that George Strickland will remain and that Jim Hegan may not be as firmly entrenched as Cleveland writers would have them think.

When asked if he would trade Strickland even for Phil Rizzuto, Hank answered with an explosive "H—no." He called Strickland the best shortstop in the major leagues and pointed to the fact the Indians led both leagues in double plays last season. He labeled the Cleveland infield as one of the best in action.

Greenberg was then asked about reports Cleveland was dicker for Clint Courtney. He shied away from any definite answer but said if Courtney were a Sammy White he would be interested. With a White or a Yogi Berra a team is assured of a top flight receiver, he said. "Courtney may not be any better than our present catchers," he concluded.

THE PROGRAM closed on a jovial note when Luke Easter, the big unsigned first sacker, took the floor. "I'm not exactly a holdout," Luke said. "But I'm a long way from agreeing with Greenberg's terms."

Luke had nothing but praise for Bill Glynn, the other first baseman last year. "He's a great player and only needs a chance at a season in top condition," Easter reported. However, he added in commenting about Glynn and newcomer Rocky Nelson that "Big

Edison Nears Title In Jr. High League

Edison Junior High School moved a step closer to clinching the city junior high championship yesterday by downing Taft 43-28 at the Edison floor.

After battling to a 9-9 deadlock in the opening quarter, the Edison squad held Taft to two points in the second to build up an 18-11 halftime bugle. The lead was increased to 28-18 at the start of the last period and Edison sealed the win with 15 points in the last stanza.

Phil Sykes popped in 19 points for the winners to take individual scoring laurels and Larry Jay added 10. Gene Remmy was high for the losers with 17. The Taft reserves notched a 30-28 verdict in the preliminary game.

The win left Edison at the top of the league standings with an overall record of seven wins and three losses. The league win assured it of a share of the title. Eber Baker can tie for the crown with a win next week over Taft.

Y Swim Squad Slated in Two Matches Here

The YMCA swimming team will seek its first victory of the season this weekend. Teams from Lima and Springfield come to the Y pool for meets Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

The Marion team is winless after two starts, dropping its opener to the Columbus Swim Club, 40-35, of Lima, 52-23, and the second to the Columbus Swim Club, 40-35. Marion gets a second crack at the Lima squad Friday night at 7:00. Saturday's meet with Springfield begins at 2 p.m.

In spite of the opening defeats, Coach Warren A. Foster is pleased with his squad. "We were two months late in starting practices, and it usually takes a new team two or three years to even come close to winning. We're happy to do as well as we are," he said.

About 30 boys, all members of the YMCA, from eight to 16 compose junior and senior squads. The senior team competes in nine events: 50, 100 and 200-yard free style, 100-yard backstroke, 100-yard breaststroke, diving, 150-yard individual medley, 150-yard medley relay, and the 200-yard free style relay.

In the 150-yard individual medley one boy swims the length of the pool six times, twice with each type stroke. The 150-yard medley relay has three boys swimming two lengths in his specialized stroke, and the 200-yard free style relay has four boys doing two lengths in strokes of his own choice.

Coach Foster singles out two team members as possessing outstanding swimming potential. They are Jim Jones in the free style and Jim Forsythe, backstroke. Others on the senior team are Fred Jones, Stan Franks and Gene Pelizzoni, free style; Ernie Garee, backstroke; John Dean, Greg Axe and Hank Krigbaum, breaststroke; Dick Renn and Larry Davis, diving.

The weekend meets will put the Y team past the halfway point in its schedule. Remaining will be three road contests; two junior meets at Tiffin, Feb. 20 and March 6, and a senior meet at Springfield Feb. 27.

Working with Foster is Dr. Hugh Cregg, a volunteer worker at the Y. He coaches the breaststroke entries. Foster is a part-time paid YMCA worker, whose main job is physical education instructor in the Marion elementary schools.

Foster promoted the idea of a swim team. "Besides the fact that there was a fine pool, I wanted to coach a team and give the boys

Giardello Favorite In TV Ring Feature

NEW YORK (AP)—The fight in the Garden tonight suggests that old bromide about "the kid with a future" and "the vet at the crossroads."

The "kid" in this cast is 23-year-old Joey Giardello of Philadelphia, the No. 2 challenger, to middle-weight champion Bobo Olson. The "vet" is 29-year-old Walter Cartier of New York, no longer listed among the top 10 of his division.

Both radio (ABC) and television (NBC) will carry the 10-round match nationally at 10 p.m., EST.

Giardello is a 2 to 1 favorite.

Purse for Jug To Hit Record High $70,000

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—The 1954 "Little Brown Jug" pacing classic for three-year-olds scheduled Sept. 23 at the Delaware County Fair, will be worth in the neighborhood of $70,000.

H. C. Thomson, secretary of the side-wheel event, said today if 16 owners pay the $500 starting fee the purse will soar over the $70,000 mark—a new high for any pacing race.

A total of 67 were kept eligible through the latest payment of $250, and only 10 of that group need face the barrier to eclipse the jug purse record of $66,280 set in 1951 when Tar Heel won in world record times of 2:01 and 2:00 over the half-mile oval.

Winterbook favorite for the '54 pace is Meadow Pace, winner of several of the two-year-old features including the famed Fox Stake and the Ohio Standardbred Futurity. But Meadow Pace, son of the heralded Adios, will face a fine array of talent coming up from the crop of two-year-olds conceded to be the greatest in harness history.

Other highly-rated nominees are Dale Frost 2:00 1-5, Excellent Chief 2:01 3-5, Queen's Adios 2:02 2-5, My Scotch Belle 2:02 2-5, Top Deck 2:02 3-5, Phantom Lady 2:03 1-5, B. W. Smith 2:03 1-5, Amortizer 2:03 1-5, Scotch Byrd 2:03 1-5, Direct Bill 2:03 3-5, and Adios Harry with a half-mile track record of 2:04 2-5. Favored Meadow Pace has a mile track record of 2:01, and a half-mile mark of 2:04, as a two-year-old.

Unknowns Topping Phoenix Open Field

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Lesser known lights in tournament golf, headed by Australian Peter Thomson of Melbourne and Jack Harden of El Paso, dominated the picture today as play continued into the second round of the $10,000 Phoenix Open.

The 24-year-old Thomson, runner-up to Ben Hogan for the British Open championship last summer and former Australian Open titlist, and Harden, 40, a club pro who plays a few tournaments each winter, found par no mystery in the opening round at the Phoenix Country Club.

Thirty-three other pros were unimpressed with par, including the nearest challengers to the co-leaders, newcomers Manuel de la Torre of Milwaukee, and John Weitzel of Hershey, Pa.

Emphasize Air Power

British Military Planners Put New Look on Defense

By EDWARD K. NELLOR
WASHINGTON (NANA) — Brig. Gen. Binner Fellers, ret., author and long-time advocate of a streamlined military establishment with high reliance on air power, today cited British military planners as leaders of the "new look" in defense.

Fellers remained only cautiously hopeful, however, that the Defense Department would move rapidly enough in the direction of what he termed the need of "wings and more wings for peace."

In urging that the U. S. defense planners adopt the British plan, Fellers said that the British air force is increasing its jet bomber strength by 300 per cent and that it will soon have 1,000 front line fighters in a constant state of readiness. He declared that the British air force is being built up at the expense of the British army and navy.

"The Defense Department is showing signs of heading in this direction now," Fellers declared, "which was something it refused to do when Gen. Omar Bradley was in charge."

FELLERS IS SUPPORTED in his views by Lord Tedder, marshal of the Royal Air Force. In a recent address before the House of Lords in London, Tedder stated:

"One remembers what happened in England before September, 1939. No effective selection was made, we tried to be strong everywhere and only succeeded in being weak everywhere, at sea, on land and in the air, with the result that we spent the first three years of the war fighting in the last ditch, fighting not to win the war—that came later—but to avoid losing it."

Tedder was successful in persuading British military leaders to economize by taking advantage of technological progress, which are chiefly in the field of air power.

In addition, James H. Doolittle, noted American air pioneer, had this to say recently regarding defenses of the U. S. in the air-atomic age.

"The experiences of Napoleon and Hitler indicate the folly of trying to defeat Russia on the ground. Her relative self-sufficiency makes naval blockade ineffective. The Soviet submarine fleet represents a formidable offensive threat, which our Navy, with the assistance of the Air Force, must be prepared to counter."

"new look" for the nation's defenses is stated this way: "Take a look at the budget."

The Navy is preparing to "mothball" many ships now on active duty. The Army is forced to cut its manpower sharply under budget limitations. Only the Air Force continues to expand.

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Charles Wilson and others, however, admit that this is not the entire answer in preparing for the air-atomic age.

"Wilson concludes, apparently with the support of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that the nation's defenses are once more in a transitory stage. Nothing should be neglected to keep us strong, while we promote the development of new weapons and train men to man them, which may change the face of our military establishment completely in less than a decade."

Fellers and other advocates of a quick shift to air defenses and counter aerial attack devices criticize this thinking as hidebound. They want more speed.

Doolittle is convinced that the development of supersonic, and then the hypersonic, ballistic, intercontinental missile is assured. But he sees little necessity for any feeling of complacency over the speed in which the new weapons are coming into being.

THE EMPHASIS of these and other air-power leaders is for a balance between defense needs and counterattack needs. In effect, the Fellers-Tedder-Doolittle argument is not for a massive, nation-wide system of radar posts and ground-to-air missile installations — that will cost billions and still not be 100 per cent effective — but for a "tailoring" of military needs to specific missions.

In their opinion the mission of the ground fighter is diminishing, the mission of the Navy changing, and the mission of the Air Force split three ways.

1. An adequate outpost of air detection and fighter-ground-to-air missiles; 2. An adequate strategic, atomic bombardment force; 3. speedier development of new aerial devices that will stretch the defense dollar and build in strength and progress while doing so.

Pike Record Lists Fewer Accidents, More Fatal in '53

HARRISBURG Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania Turnpike statistics for 1953 showed today a decrease in accidents but an upswing in the number of fatal crashes.

A record 91 persons, 8 more than the previous high recorded in 1952, lost their lives in 69 fatal crashes along the 327-mile four lane superhighway. Although mileage driven rose 56 per cent during the 12 months, the fatal accident rate was up more than 11 per cent.

Total accidents numbered 1,639 for the year, a decrease of almost 200 from the previous year's 1,832 or a drop of 10.5 per cent. The fatality rate for 1953, as measured by 100 million vehicle miles, the standard method, was 7.5 compared with 7.3 in 1952.

When a visitor to Britain puts his hand in his change pocket, he pulls out a handful of history, according to the British Travel Association. Abbreviations for pounds, shillings and pence tell the invasion history of the British Isles. The symbol for pound is a hangover from the Norman

French word for pound, "livre." The S for shilling comes directly from the Danish word "chelling." The Romans donated the D for penny, from their word "denarius."

Opens Fire on Lausche

Rhodes Wastes No Time In Starting of Campaign

BY REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—November election campaigns usually bloom after the spring primary nominations.

But this year looks different. With the primaries three months away, the race for governor already is under way. It still is a one-man affair but gives promise of soon becoming competitive.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes wasted no time getting his Republican bandwagon rolling. Within two hours after the Wednesday deadline for primary election candidates to file, Rhodes opened fire on Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche. Both are opposed for their party nominations.

In a Toledo talk the auditor chided Lausche for lack of a master plan to lace Ohio with turnpikes geared to free roads. Rhodes asserted that opened the way for other states to by-pass Ohio with links between the northern turnpike and toll roads planned for Southern states.

Rhodes followed up yesterday in Cleveland with a complaint that Lausche had been "working on the railroad."

The former Columbus mayor demanded Lausche make public the "monies and gratuities" received from the Federation for Railway Progress.

Referring to the organization headed by railroad Magnate Robert R. Young of Cleveland, Rhodes said in a prepared statement:

"I have in my possession documents showing that the present governor of Ohio is, or has been while in office, an officer of a group dedicated to furthering the best interests of its organization."

"I believe it is incumbent upon the present governor . . . to make public the monies and gratuities he has received from that organization."

"There is nothing wrong with groups combining to protect their common cause or interest but it certainly is against the public interest for the governor of Ohio to be an active vice president of such an organization."

Lausche declined "any comment at all" on Rhodes' blasts.

The governor left the impression he intended to avoid being drawn into an active campaign prematurely. But the free-swinging Rhodes can be expected to keep the pressure on, hoping something may give.

Lausche was counsel for the railway federation in the 1947-48 period between his first and second terms as governor. He now is completing his fourth two-year term as governor and seeking a fifth.

The federation listed Lausche in 1951 as vice president of its executive council. Chairman of the council is Young of Cleveland where Lausche formerly was judge and mayor. The federation no longer lists Lausche.

The governor holds an enviable vote-getting record that has permitted him to win without rolling up his sleeves in recent campaigns. Whether Rhodes can draw him out remains to be seen.

Ashley Home Damaged By Fire on Roof, Water

ASHLEY—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Haubel and son of Ashley was badly damaged by fire about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday. Mrs. Donald Rodgers, a neighbor, discovered the west side of the roof was blazing. Most of the shingle roof was destroyed before the flames were brought under control. There was water damage on the second floor but all the furniture was carried out by neighbors and firemen.

Mrs. D. W. Bennett is owner of the house, which is fully covered by insurance.

This kind of "Fix" is OK
Traffic law enforcement is important. Traffic violations can't be "fixed" if today's tragically high accident rate is to be reduced. But the careful driver, when sued, does have someone who will take his place in court or in making a friendly settlement of damage claims. When you have your automobile liability insurance with us we "fix" things so you need not worry.

An Open Letter From (Beanie Nicolosi) To All His Many Friends and Patrons....
I wish to take this opportunity to say thanks to all who gave so generously and was instrumental in making our "MARCH OF DOLLARS" board for the Infantile Paralysis Foundation a terrific success.
The polio board which measured twenty feet in length and three feet in depth was bulging out at the seams with crisp new dollar bills and pecunia of other denominations.
We have been informed by the chairman of the foundation (Mr. Jay H. Maish Jr.) that the $620.00 we were able to collect was one of the largest amounts achieved through a single project in this year's campaign.
This achievement for such a truly great cause is something that humbles us all in the spirit that this is a really wonderful country to live in when we are called upon to aid our less fortunate brethren.
Again I want to express my appreciation and heartfelt thanks to all who helped us make this drive so successful, it is our earnest hope that these same familiar faces along with new ones will be around to help us when we will put on a similar drive for the polio foundation next year.
Respectfully Yours,

Flash Gordon Propagandized

U.S. Plans To Conquer Universe, Russian Says

MOSCOW (AP)—Take it from the Soviet press, Captain Video Buck Rogers Flash Gordon and the rest of the U. S. space boys are up to no good. They are the vanguard of a new and greater American imperialism aimed at conquering other planets.

This is the judgment of one G. Avram, writing in the Soviet periodical Art of the Cinema. His article is entitled "Hollywood Looks to the Future."

Even if the Americans can't get to those other planets yet, says Avram, they're meanwhile using the space films to scare the U. S. taxpayer so badly he won't mind paying the bill for rearming. According to the Soviet writer, the destruction of New York shown in the movie "When Worlds Collide" is an attempt to give "the common American man a deadly night and to justify the armaments race."

At least one space man isn't even a good actor in the Soviet view. Avram described swimming star Buster Crabbe as "one of the nine pseudo-actors who played Tarzan in the Hollywood films."

He told his readers Buster played Flash Gordon "quite colorlessly."

Scout Leader Talks to Local Kiwanis Club

Organization for Boys Described by Central Ohio Council Official

For the Marion Kiwanis Club's annual observance of National Boy Scout Week, speaker was William MacKenzie of Columbus council commissioner of the Central Ohio Council, Boy Scouts of America.

His talk at the club's meeting Thursday noon at Hotel Harding concerned the forming of Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer Scout groups, explaining some of the activities of the groups.

Stating that this is the 44th anniversary of the scouts, MacKenzie reported the organization was started in 1910 and four years later was granted a charter by the United States Congress.

At the age of eight boys are eligible to become Cub Scouts. Cub Scouts are organized in packs, and each pack is divided into dens. Mothers of the boys serve as den mothers and a Boy Scout acts as den chief. Packs have definite programs with various projects. Such as kite flying, contests and building models or bird houses.

When a boy becomes 11 years of age, he becomes eligible to join a Boy Scout troop. Cub Scouts look forward to the various activities of scouting such as hiking, camping, canoeing and swimming, the speaker said.

He explained how scouting has helped future life of boys as adults. Scouting, he said, provides the desire to give service to others.

The speaker compared scouting in the United States with youth organizations in other countries. As a Kiwanian, he reminded the members that the prime objective of Kiwanis is to promote programs that aid youth.

MacKenzie is one of the top laymen in the scouting movement in central Ohio. He was introduced by Karl Bechtel, program chairman for the day.

Guests included C. G. Wheelton, Harding Area Council executive, Boy Scouts R. S. Zachman, Paul Handel and Dean Johnson.

Mt. Gilead's Budget Tops $60,000 Mark

MT. GILEAD — An increase of some $20,000 was approved for the 1954 appropriations ordinance by Mt. Gilead Council this week when it okayed a total of $60,525 for expenditures.

Most of the increase was made up in the allotment for street repairs. A total of $4,000 more was appropriated for street repairs this year than in 1953. A total of $2,000 was also appropriated for sidewalk repair compared to none for that purpose last year.

Council also passed an ordinance creating a village recreation board and authorized the purchase of an emergency pump for the new village waterworks plant.

Nelson Campbell, Mt. Gilead attorney, representing several residents of the village, presented a petition signed by some 74 persons or business firms opposing the installation of parking meters in the village. No action was taken on the parking meter ordinance which was approved by the last Council.

Constitutional Review

The purpose of the constitutional provision that calls for two-thirds majorities on proposed amendments was to discourage amendments which were untimely. It is now of the greatest importance that no one is claiming a two-thirds majority for any of the proposals offered in the place of the Bricker amendment.

Since the original amendment, as reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee last summer and carried over to the second session of the 83rd Congress, has been sidetracked by parliamentary maneuvering, it is unlikely there will be any amendment submitted to the states for ratification.

In view of the disclosure during Senate debate and public discussion of the Bricker proposal that constitutional lawyers themselves cannot agree on the effect of the proposal or of the substitutes offered for it, it would take a miracle to get the three-fourths majority needed for ratification by the states even if an amendment were adopted.

No one questions the value of the constitutional review which has grown out of the discussion opened by Sen. Bricker four years ago when he first called attention to the possibility that the treaty power of the United States might be misused some day, to take away some of the civil liberties of its citizens.

Sen. Bricker's original misgivings grew into an issue over the procedure for conducting the foreign policy of the United States—and it is that secondary issue on which there now seems to be a deadlock which will freeze the status quo of foreign-policy procedure.

The issue over his original misgivings has been decided unequivocally in favor of Sen. Bricker's point of view.

There must be no infringement on civil liberties through the misuse of the federal government's treaty power. No administration would dare to try it now.

If one did try it, moreover, citing congressional confusion as its justification, there still would be a constitutional safeguard which so far has not been called into play.

The Supreme Court of the United States never has declared a treaty unconstitutional. But it never has been established that the Supreme Court could not do so if it wanted to.

The Supreme Court declared its power to do so twice in cases in the latter part of the 19th century.

It is not amiss in this connection to recall the adage that the Supreme Court pays attention to public opinion and now has been given an opportunity to learn that Americans are wide awake to the danger of misuse of the treaty power even if they are not prepared to change the foreign-policy procedures of their government.

Awful Lot of Something in Brazil

It now has been established as a popular judgment that Brazilian coffee growers are being unfair to American coffee drinkers because the cost of the coffee bean keeps rising. It may be established before the big coffee corner can be straightened out that some other people in and out of Brazil are unfair to coffee drinkers, too, for the same reason.

But in the meantime, with the fact established that it is unfair to get a higher price for coffee, it might be better not to think about the high prices of butter, tractors, corn, shoes, sealing wax, canned cherries, automobiles, carpeting, bourbon, gasoline, shaving cream, skilled labor and living and dying.

A Brazilian coffee planter is reported to have quipped when he was twitted about the high price of coffee: "I object to the high price of Cadillac."

Or as the pot said to the kettle when the kettle said the pot was black, "Look who's talking."

China Under New Management

Reports of food riots in China have no immediate significance. But the circumstances behind the riots must give chills to the new Communist masters of famine-stricken Chinese hordes.

The Communist conspiracy made headway in China because it baited its trap with hope for millions who had been living in despair. If they bowed their necks to the yoke that had been made in Moscow, they would have a better life than they had ever known before.

They would have food to eat, land to own, and possessions formerly denied them. They could rise above a subsistence basis of life. They could get even with their enemies if they joined the Communists.

No one can know how long it is going to take the Chinese multitudes to learn what multitudes in the Soviet Union are still learning. But eventually they will know from experience the new masters have nothing better to offer than was their lot under generations of oppressors in the past.

When the tactics of the Communists have become familiar and famine and terror still stalk the Chinese hordes, there will have to be a new way out—and the next time it won't be Communism.

Fuss Over Beeson Shows Up Inconsistencies

What is sauce for the goose evidently isn't sauce for the gander after all. Democrats in the Senate who didn't object but voted to confirm Martin Durkin as secretary of labor a year ago, even though he retained his ties with the International Plumbers' Union, are now making quite a fuss over the fact that Albert C. Beeson, nominated for membership on the National Labor Relations Board, may some day derive a pension from his former employer.

Beeson's company has stated flatly that he has no contract or agreement that provides for his return to the company whenever he terminates his service on the Labor Board, but there are members of the Senate who think an eventual pension raises "doubts" about his impartiality.

Everybody knows that in any case involving a former employer the member of the Labor Board affected usually would disqualify himself from sitting in that particular proceeding.

TO ARGUE that a commitment to receive a pension some day from a company makes a man so prejudiced on the side of management that he can never be fair in hearing any cases of management and labor is to erect a barrier which was conveniently overlooked last year by the same Democrats who are objecting now to the confirmation of Beeson.

Durkin became secretary of labor in the Eisenhower Cabinet notwithstanding an agreement in writing which provided for his resumption of the post of presidency of the union whenever his service in the government would be terminated.

Incidentally, Durkin, as secretary of labor, was to assume a post that in many respects is just as much a quasi-judicial office as that of any member of the Labor Board. The secretary of labor has authority to determine minimum wages to be paid under government contracts under the Walsh-Healy Act and the Davis-Bacon law.

When Durkin went before the Senate Labor Committee last year, he got a different reception than Beeson is getting today.

HERE is an extract from the official testimony on January 16, 1953, just before the committee voted unanimously to recommend confirmation to the Senate.

"Durkin: I am appointed to the position of secretary of labor, I have already made arrangements to leave my post as general president of the United Association (Plumbers' Union) without any ties whatever to the union other than being a member, without any salary, and without any compensation for expenses or any moneys of any type."

"Sen. Taft: And you will resign your position as president of the United Association, you said? I think you said you would leave your post."

"Durkin: I have taken a leave of absence with no authority to transact any of the affairs. I may return at some later date, and, of course, that is entirely—"

"Sen. Taft: You may return? Is there an agreement that you will return if necessary?"

"Durkin: Oh, no; no agreement."

"Sen. Taft: You mean you may; you are eligible to return, of course?"

"Durkin: As a member, I am eligible to return."

At a press conference held in New York at the Eisenhower headquarters on December 5, 1952, the question was asked of Durkin: "Are you now on technical leave of absence?"

"I will go on complete severance. I would go back as president, just as I am now."

IN THE 1953 "Directory of Labor Unions," issued by the U.S. Department of Labor, a footnote to the Plumbers' Union listing states that Durkin "was granted leave of absence not to exceed four years while serving in his post as secretary of the U.S. Department of Labor."

Durkin, while in office, was influential enough to block a prospective appointment to the National Labor Relations Board, even though the senators from the state in question both endorsed him. The labor unions objected, and that was enough to enable Durkin to veto the appointment.

So, when a labor-union executive gets "leave of absence" from his position as a top union officer to enter the government, no objections are made by the radicals and so-called "liberals" in the Senate. Yet, when a man has absolutely no contract or agreement to return to his former employer but merely to derive a pension some day when he reaches an advanced age, these same radicals and "liberals" argue that he cannot possibly be impartial and must of necessity be biased in favor of management.

Apparently it's all right for a former union official to come into the government and retain connections, but not so for a management man. That's an odd conception of "impartiality."

Relaxation
By TRUMAN TWILL

When the doctor prescribes relaxation to cure what ails you, he must be thinking of the talcum-soft sand of a beach in Bermuda with the warm sun overhead and the murmur of the distant surf to lull a relaxer into slumber that will knit up his ravaged "leaves of care."

He must be thinking of idyllic happiness in front of a huge fireplace in the main lodge of Sun Valley, of two-hour lunches in a bright corner of the dining salon at White Sulphur, of sleepy days aboard a ship at sea, of quiet hours unbroken by any sound louder than the inextinguishable tic-toc of a grandfather clock.

Good old doc. His own doctor has been advising him to practice relaxation, too, before rigor mortis sets in.

A friend of ours has just been told by his doctor to do some relaxing, to go as limp as an old girdle while nature performs some overdue rehabilitation, to imagine he is syrup being poured out of a pitcher and spreading itself over a floor, to cuddle up in a warm place like a sleepy kitten and get in all the sack time he can manage between his shifts in the lead mines.

The poor guy is supposed to quit jittering about the atomic bomb and all the other nonsense threatening to blow the republic to the other side of oblivion. He is supposed to ignore his creditors and his aching back.

He is supposed to relax while all the other tensed-up people pay their taxes and lay the groundwork for survival when the first Red tank comes rolling down their street with Molotov in control, pursued by John Foster Dulles in a Jeep.

There is absolutely nothing to be nervous about, barring drought, pestilence, Korea, Indochina and Mickey Mantle's knee. All will be well, unless something goes wrong with the international balance of trade, the next congressional election and the polar ice caps.

Our friend is supposed to soak up all the sweetness and light being shed up and down and across the news columns of the newspapers and the TV and radio sets of the land. He is supposed to keep his mind off the implications of retirement at 65, the fact Clark Gable now is 55 and the probability that Bobby Feller will be pitching his last season of baseball this summer.

All is going to be cream and velvet if he will clear his throbbing head of all the distractions which have been keeping him jumpy and overwrought.

That's what ails him — nothing more serious than his own imaginings — his own dark brown fears — his purplish miasmas of misgiving rising like a poisonous fog from the fetid swamps of apprehension. So he must be serene, the doc says. Look at life with a sense of humor. Be calm and philosophical. Loosen the tautness of his convictions about things he can't change. Start to vegetate while there's still time.

Our friend thinks he will be a turnip at first, instead of something fancy like salsify, red beets, or carrots. But he still wonders about his doc and when the old boy intends to start being a port-cup. The doc struck him as being in need of a little relaxation too.

Dig That Crazy Tune

Serious Handicap to American Shipping
By Raymond Moley

NEW ORLEANS — The section of the report of the Commission on Foreign Economic Policy which deals with our merchant marine has caused no little consternation among representatives of American shipping companies in the great port city of New Orleans.

The Randall Report, with several members of the commission dissenting, recommends that the statutory provision requiring use of United States vessels for shipments financed by U.S. loans or grants be repealed and that the determination of the active merchant fleet requirements take account of the availability of foreign vessels and of the importance to the balance of payments of foreign maritime nations of their dollar earnings from shipping services.

RUDOLPH S. HECHT, chairman of the Mississippi Steamship Company and chairman of the Committee of American Steamship Lines, which is composed of 14 shipping companies which operate some 180 vessels in foreign trade, has sent a letter approved unanimously by the committee to Chairman Clarence Randall. In it he sets forth the case for a powerful merchant marine and points out a number of compelling arguments against the adoption of the report's recommendations.

While the Randall Report recognizes that a U.S. merchant marine is essential to the trade and commerce of the free world, Hecht says, "It would interpret United States needs for American merchant ships in terms of available foreign ships and in terms of the needs of foreign countries for American dollars."

He goes on: "Your interpretation of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 seems to be based on the dangerously fallacious assumption that in time of need the United States could use these foreign ships as its own — as an integral arm of its merchant fleet; as suppliers of and transports for American troops overseas; as carriers of critical strategic material imports to American industry; and as transporters of American exports to foreign markets."

TWO WORLD WARS should have brought home with undeniable force the realization that we were woefully lacking in anything like an adequate merchant fleet and that we certainly couldn't rely upon our allies to fill the breach.

We found that it was up to America to meet the problem not only by providing itself with a great merchant marine but also by delivering hundreds of vessels to our allies.

In the event of war we can expect to find our allies in much the same position. They will be unable to spare their merchant fleet to serve us.

Their ships will give first priority, and properly so, to their own particular needs — to maintaining their lifelines and to moving and supporting their own troops.

If the West comes to blows with the Soviet sphere, attrition to allied merchant fleets would indeed be heavy. That potential enemy is known to have hundreds of modern submarines — enough to have given naval persons in this country nightmares for the past several years.

HECHT POINTS OUT that the recommendations of the Randall Report "would shrink the fleet, further deplete the already distressed shipbuilding industry, and reduce trained crews of seafaring and ship administrative personnel."

As to legislation that stipulates that 50 per cent of U.S. foreign cargoes be shipped in American flag vessels, it should be remembered that the remaining 50 per cent is available to foreign shipping. Certainly, no such consideration is given American shipping by other countries.

Preoccupied as we are with enormous defense spending, we must not allow the importance of our merchant fleet to be overshadowed.

The subsidies granted our shipping under the 1936 act, and considerations given in foreign-aid legislation, must be continued if we are to achieve a realistic balance between our defense establishment, our economy, and our shipping over the years ahead.

New Russian 'Sport'
By Fred Manor

HELSEINKI — Now that criticism has become fashionable in the Soviet Union, some of the Russian provincial papers have been printing scathing descriptions of conditions under the Red regime.

The dire food shortage in the Soviet Union becomes understandable after reading about a collective farm in the Orel district in Central Russia.

The farm's offices are situated in a decrepit old hut with a single room, and this is what a reporter of an Orel newspaper found there:

"In the left-hand corner is a stove, behind which a calf is tied to the wall. In the second corner is an unmade bed. In the third corner, a kitchen table covered with dirty pans and cups; and in the fourth corner is the farm manager's desk, littered with accounts and official papers.

"Here the peasants sit all day, smoking, and talking, talking, talking."

The state industry seems to be run on the Medieval system of strict personal barter. A newspaper from the Leningrad district prints an amusing story about the foreman of a machine shop who refused to repair a broken-down piece of machinery in the neighboring state furniture workshop until a cupboard for his wife was made for him.

When the cupboard was ready the manager of the furniture shop had it loaded on a truck, but refused to allow the truck to leave the premises until his machinery was repaired.

Railway travel in the Soviet Union also comes in for much criticism. A newspaper report describes how passengers on the five-day train journey to Siberia complained to the conductor that their car was cold. In Russia each coach has an individual heating system, so the conductor smartly nipped out at each station, and filled his bucket with coal which he removed on the sly from tenders of waiting locomotives. After a few such stops he apparently filched enough coal to keep his fire going.

Another clearly less obliging conductor was heard to retort to a complaining passenger: "This is only a short journey. Five days with a little discomfort won't hurt you." That was when a passenger was complaining about receiving no bed linen in the sleeping car of the Trans-Siberian express, and about having to sleep on a tattered mattress.

No tea can be had on the journey to Siberia. The sleeping car attendants are issued a ration of tea and sugar to be served to the passengers. But they are not supplied with any charcoal for the samovars, so they cannot boil the water.

Short-distance travel does not seem to be any more comfortable. Each coach on a local train has a number, and the station ticket office marks every ticket with the coach number for which it is valid. But that does not seem to prevent overcrowding. A passenger in a letter published in a Ukrainian newspaper said that after such a trip "his hat was all crushed, traces of his fellow-passengers' parcels were all over his coat, and his glass tubes with medicines (the object of his trip to town) were broken to pieces."

So when you feel like letting off steam against your own traveling conditions, just spare a thought for your counterpart in Moscow, Leningrad and thereabouts. He has a right to see red, at least about the train service he gets.

Another 'Fix'

Results of Groundhog Day are now being protested. There are strong hints of scandal, following rumors that the groundhog "threw it." The stories of a "fix" include allegations that the groundhog bet against his own shadow. The groundhog tradition has been shaken to its foundations.

We already have thrown out his performance and are going back to hog milt, the thickness of the coats on woolly bears, the Farmers' Almanac and local prognosticators. Washington is disturbed by rumors of a nationwide ground hog "fix" and the President may name a commission to investigate and report back. (There were no suspicious actions by groundhogs during the Truman administration, and the Republicans think the current scandal may be a Democratic plot to smear Ike.)

The country is very touchy about its groundhog tradition and any administration that can be shown to have been in power during a Candlemas Day "fix" will lose votes.

The scandal has eclipsed even events at the Big Four meeting where Molotov came out but did NOT see his shadow and immediately wired Moscow for instructions. He was told that his shadow had undoubtedly been stolen in a capitalistic plot and ordered to search Dulles for it. If Molotov finds his shadow, it will mean a long cold spell. If he doesn't find it, it will mean the same thing.

Getting back to the groundhog tradition in America, there is a strong feeling government controls of groundhog shadows are needed, since they are so essential to national happiness every February. Why permit a groundhog to come out and see his shadow or not, as he may choose?

Let us have a federal support program for shadows. Since the groundhog shadow means six weeks more of winter and depresses people terribly, there might even be a program to put ceilings on shadows, limiting them to no more than two inches. . . . Maybe the whole thing is something for United Nations to handle.

How about programming that telecast of the New York daily police lineup of crooks, "Name That GOON?"

In our book, John Murray Anderson rated above Ziegfeld, Carroll and most of the others as a musical show creator. Nobody on Broadway had heard the word "choreography" up to the time Anderson revolutionized musicals, with Jones & Green as his sponsors, through his first "Greenwich Village Follies" 35 years ago. Nobody has seen a musical with such color and artistic taste up to that time. The black and gray of a funeral parlor clashed with the spirit of John Murray Anderson and we are sure that if he had had his way at the obsequies he would have wanted color and lilting melodies. Anderson demanded radiance with all his stage "exits" and would have wanted them at his own final curtain.

The Rev. Father Joseph McCaffrey, pastor of a Times Square church, does a good job in calling attention to the group of Times Square movie houses which show nothing but the dirtiest movies, even displaying posters and signs that are pretty revolting.

After taking without mishap hundreds of terrific falls as part of his TV routine, it was ironical that Jackie Gleason should bust his ankle accidentally the other night.

Shirley Booth, who opens in "By the Beautiful Sea" in New Haven will be back where she practically started, in an S. Z. Poli stock company.

6-Year-Old Battle Won

Burma Communists Beaten, Outlawed

By ARNOLD C. BRACKMAN
RANGOON (NANA) — Burma has won her war against a six-year-old Communist insurrection. The Communists are outlawed, defeated and beaten.

This is what makes this Asian victory a singular triumph (1) Burma is newly independent (2) Burma is Socialist (3) Burma is neutralist in the Cold War and (4) Burma uneasily shares a 1,000-mile border with Red China.

The Burmese have beaten the Communists on two scores. They have defeated them by force of arms in the field and equally important, they have defeated them on the propaganda front by widespread land reform and free elections.

IN JANUARY, 1948, the British armed forces stirred deep peasant resentment over full independence to the Burmese government of Premier U Nu. Two months later, with the new Socialist country still trying to organize itself, the Communists rose in armed revolt.

Their forces numbered upward of 25,000 troops, half of them armed. Today they have been reduced to a hard core of 2,000 in all, mostly hiding in isolated jungle patches near the Burma-India border of Arakan.

At one time around 1950, the Communists held a rich strip of rice country in central Burma. They even occupied Prome, a major city only 150 miles north of Rangoon.

But in large measure the Communists had much to defeat themselves by their harsh tactics. They conducted drumhead court-martials at "people's courts." Their land distribution program backfired and the excesses of their MAUNG CHO, a Communist field commander who later surrendered with 300 of his Red guards, described the situation in this way: "Wherever we ruled the economy was shattered. Education came to a standstill and cultivated lands turned fallow."

At the same time the Socialist Burma government embarked upon a daring plan to steal the Communist propaganda thunder by a reform program which would outstrip the Communists. In a sense they out-communized the Communists even to the Socialist party flag which consists of a gold hammer and a sickle on a red field—but with a pheasant significantly tucked away in the lower right-hand corner, a symbol of Burmese nationalism.

In three important aspects however, the Burma government differed from the Communists in both theory and practice.

(1) The government adhered to democratic methods, and placed its faith in elections and a legal opposition. (2) The government favored a neutralist foreign policy, as opposed to the Communist demand for full subservience to Moscow and the Soviet bloc, and (3) The government won popular peasant support in a nation more than 90 per cent peasant, by opposing forced collectivization.

Three First-Grade Boys Go Through Ice on Pond, Drown

BRIDGETON, R. I. — Three first-grade pupils drowned yesterday when they stopped to play on the thin ice of a mill pond on their way home from school.

News of the tragedy was brought to the victims' families by Linda Frenette 6, who also fell through the ice but managed to scramble to safety.

The bodies of William Cooney and Charles Hopp both 6 were found floating face down in the water. The body of James Scanlan, 7, was recovered by grapplers about four hours later.

forced labor and forced military service.

Today the Communists, in line with Moscow's world-wide policy are trying a different tack. This time it is the line of infiltration and the popular front.

But the Burmese Socialists are wary of this development and as a check against any united front they have outlawed the Communist party as an illegal organization.

Two Polio-Victim Brothers Perish as Fire Sweeps Home

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Two small polio-victim brothers perished last night in a fire that swept their bedroom.

They were Eugene Blais, 5, whose arms and shoulder were in a brace, and Delbert 4 sons of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Blais.

Mrs. Blais, who was watching television in an adjacent room, was summoned to the bedroom by her 7-year-old daughter Gail.

Gail carried her 1-year-old sister Judy to safety while the mother tried to smother the flames enveloping the boys' bunk beds.

They she carried another daughter, Nancy, 2, to the street and tried to return for the boys. She was driven back by the flames.

Fire officials blamed the fire on a defective oil heater in the bedroom.

Cold War in Coffee

ST. ANTHONY, Idaho — There's something of a cold war over coffee under way in St. Anthony.

The Thrifty-Way Drug Store advertises in its window that coffee is 5 cents a cup, with refills free.

And two doors away, the sign in a cafe window reads:

"Coffee still 10 cents, but aspirin and all other drugs in stock free."

Beneath the cafe sign are the drugs in stock: one box of aspirin, one box of bandages, a bottle of antiseptic.

Senators in No Big Rush For Test on Treaty Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate waits to hear how the nation feels now about the proposal of Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to curb the President's treaty-making powers. Senators continue to debate the issue, but Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California says key test votes will be put off for 10 days or more. The delay is caused by plans of many Republican senators to leave the capital for Lincoln Day speeches next week. But Knowland says the pause also will give the country a chance to voice its sentiments in the matter. The Senate still is split four ways on the constitutional issue. The prospects for approval of any amendment thus seem poor. Postal Rates—The House Post

Five File Petitions At Wyandot Board

UPPER SANDUSKY — Attorney F. K. Cassel of Carey, seeking reelection as Wyandot County representative to the state legislature, will be unopposed for the Republican nomination and will contest in the November election with Fred L. Teal of McCutchenville, unopposed for the nomination on the Democratic ticket. Five candidates had filed petition with the board of elections here at the closing time Wednesday for the three county offices to be filled. They were Edward L. Beard, Republican, of Upper Sandusky, serving a first term as county auditor and seeking reelection; Ross a Winter, Republican of Upper Sandusky, seeking reelection as Wyandot County Commissioner; Henry Logsdon, of near Upper Sandusky, a Democrat unopposed for the nomination for the county commissioner post; and the candidates for representative, Mr. Cassel and Mr. Teal.

Billingsley Admits Berle Unwelcome At His Stork Club

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Milton (Uncle Miltie) Berle has been declared persona non grata at the Stork Club. The trouble, according to owner Sherman Billingsley, is that the TV star acts offstage too much as he does on. Berle blames the whole thing on a takeoff of the Stork Club TV show he did last spring on his own program. Laughed Billingsley: "I wish they would do more of that. That's good." Berle yesterday confirmed he found the Stork's door barred to him and his bride, Ruth Cosgrove, Wednesday night. "I knew," he said, "I was unwelcome. But I just wanted to make sure." Said Billingsley: "He's a scene stealer, an up-stager. He table hops and yells across the room. He acts the same way in the dining room as he does on his show."

Five-Alarm Detroit Fire Loss Set at $750,000

DETROIT (AP)—A five-alarm fire gutted the block-long Lloyd A. Fry Roofing Co. in southwestern industrial Detroit last night. For a time the blaze threatened nearby gasoline storage tanks. Damage was unofficially estimated at $750,000. No one was hurt at the fire but three firemen were injured when their fire truck, speeding to the blaze, collided with a semi-trailer truck.

Two Persons Hurt in County Auto Accidents

Two persons were injured Thursday in the six accidents investigated by the Marion police department, state highway patrol, and sheriff's office. Mrs. Norma Jean Jenkins sustained abrasions of the hands and legs in an accident occurring at 11:30 a.m. Thursday on the Sawyer Rd. south of Marion. She was a passenger in an automobile driven by her husband, Ralph Frederick Jenkins, 28, of near Marion, which struck a tree after he lost control of the automobile. The automobile was heading south. Mrs. Jenkins was taken in a Gunder ambulance to the Marion City Hospital where she was treated and released. The automobile, extensively damaged on the right side, was removed from the scene by a wrecker. The sheriff's office investigated the accident.

Driver Slightly Hurt

Evah Ruth Hughes, 29, of Radnor received a slightly bruised right side in one of the two county accidents reported by the state patrol. The accident occurred at 9 a.m. Thursday in the southwest part of the county on Route 4, about one and one-half miles south of its junction with Route 203. According to the patrol, the Hughes car was going north when it ran off the road on the right side, knocked down a stop sign and farm fence and broke off a telephone pole. The car was moderately damaged on the top, front and right front fender.

Second Pole Broken

Another telephone pole was broken off in an accident at 12:45 p.m. Thursday on the Gooding Rd., south of Marion and about four miles west of Route 23. A car driven by Patricia Ann Davids, 24, of near Prospect was heading south when it went out of control, going into a ditch and breaking off the pole. There were no injuries, but the car was moderately damaged on the left side.

Three City Accidents

Three minor traffic accidents were investigated Thursday by Marion police. A collision in the 300 block on W. Center St. at 9:18 a.m. Thursday involved cars driven by Howard P. Collins, 35, of 414 Olney Ave. and James W. Conle, 37, of 532 W. Columbia St. At 8:48 a.m. Thursday, cars driven by James W. Kratzer, 17, of 160 John St. and Larry L. Hoptry, 17, of 467 Scranton Ave. were involved in a mashup in front of 297 Bradford St. Cars driven by James E. Levacy, 41, of 454 1/2 W. Center St. and Dana R. Jones, 22, of 454 Thompson St. were involved in an accident at S. Vine and E. Center Sts.
